TOXIC ALGAE FOUND

We have just learned that toxic algae has been found between the Luebke house and the Didier house. Please stay away from the water in this area. This algae could make you and your pets sick if you go in the water. If you are in the adjoining area, we recommend you also stay out of the water until it goes away. If you or somebody you know sees suspicious looking algae in other parts of the lake, stay away from it. Do not go into the water.

The algae is caused by the high concentration of phosphorus coming into the lake from Mason Creek and the Oconomowoc River and the warm water temperature. Algae, not necessarily toxic, will probably be in the lake until the water temperature drops.
